LONDON, May 31—Great Britain ordered her troops in Syria and Lebanon to halt the bloody Arab-French disorders today and served a virtual ultimatum on France to cease hostilities in the Levant immediately.

In a move to resolve the Levant crisis and prevent a possible rupture of Allied communications lines to the Far East, Prime Minister Churchill announced he had ordered British armed intervention between the warring French and Arab forces in Syria and Lebanon. At the same time, a terse memo-

U. S. AGREED?

WASHINGTON, May 31—Great Britain's action to halt hostilities in the Levant undoubtedly was taken with the full knowledge and agreement of this country, diplomatic sources said today.

Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew has been consulting with British officials as well as with representatives of the other countries concerned as the crisis has developed.

random was dispatched to Gen. Charles De Gaulle "requesting" the immediate withdrawal of all French troops in the Levant to their barracks "to avoid collision between British and French forces."

"Once firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tri-partite discussions here in London," the British note said.

The sudden British intervention climaxed three weeks of spreading disorder in the Levant, touched off by the dispatch of French reinforcements to Syria and Lebanon to back up France's demand for strategic bases in the former mandated countries.

The ancient city of Damascus was aflame from French bombing and shelling, and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced in commons that the situation there had become worse in the last 12 hours.

Eden said late advices from the British minister in Damascus reported heavy and continued fighting in the city throughout last night and early today.

He said two great fires were burning in the center of the city. (Continued on Page Two)

Allies Study Status Of Financiers

Men Who Bankrolled Hitler May Be Classed As War Criminals

BULLETIN

LONDON, May 31—Lord Wright opened a 16-nation conference today with an announcement that the United Nations war crimes commission had indicted 2,657 persons on charges made by various allied governments.

LONDON, May 31—Allied representatives met today to decide whether the financiers who bankrolled Hitler to power should be indicted as war criminals.

Delegates from sixteen governments opened a three-day conference sponsored by the war crimes commission. The agenda was secret. But it was known that the question of United Nations policy on the financial and industrial leaders of the Nazi regime was the major matter before the conference.

Meanwhile, a Copenhagen dispatch reported that Princess Helena of Denmark had returned to her native Germany, banished forever from her husband's country because she collaborated with the Nazis. She was the first member of a royal family to do so. (Continued on Page Two)

KAI-SHEK QUILTS PREMIER POST

Chinese Leader Keeps Job As President; Soong Named Premier

CHUNGKING, May 31—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek resigned as premier of China today, but retained his concurrent post of president.

Reliable sources said a plenary session of the Kuomintang's central executive committee appointed T. V. Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law, as premier—a post officially known as president of the executive Yuan.

Soong had been acting premier since last December, when Chiang turned from political problems to urgent military matters, including a Japanese drive toward Chungking.

The plenary session also accepted the resignation of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law of Chiang, as vice-premier—vice and named Wong Wen-hao, economic minister and chairman of the war production board to succeed him. A Washington dispatch said Dr. Kung resigned because poor health prevented him from returning to China from the United States at this time. Dr Kung also resigned from the concurrent post of governor of the central bank of China, but remained Chiang's personal representative to President Truman, Washington said.

U. S. COMBAT CASUALTIES PASS MILLION MARK

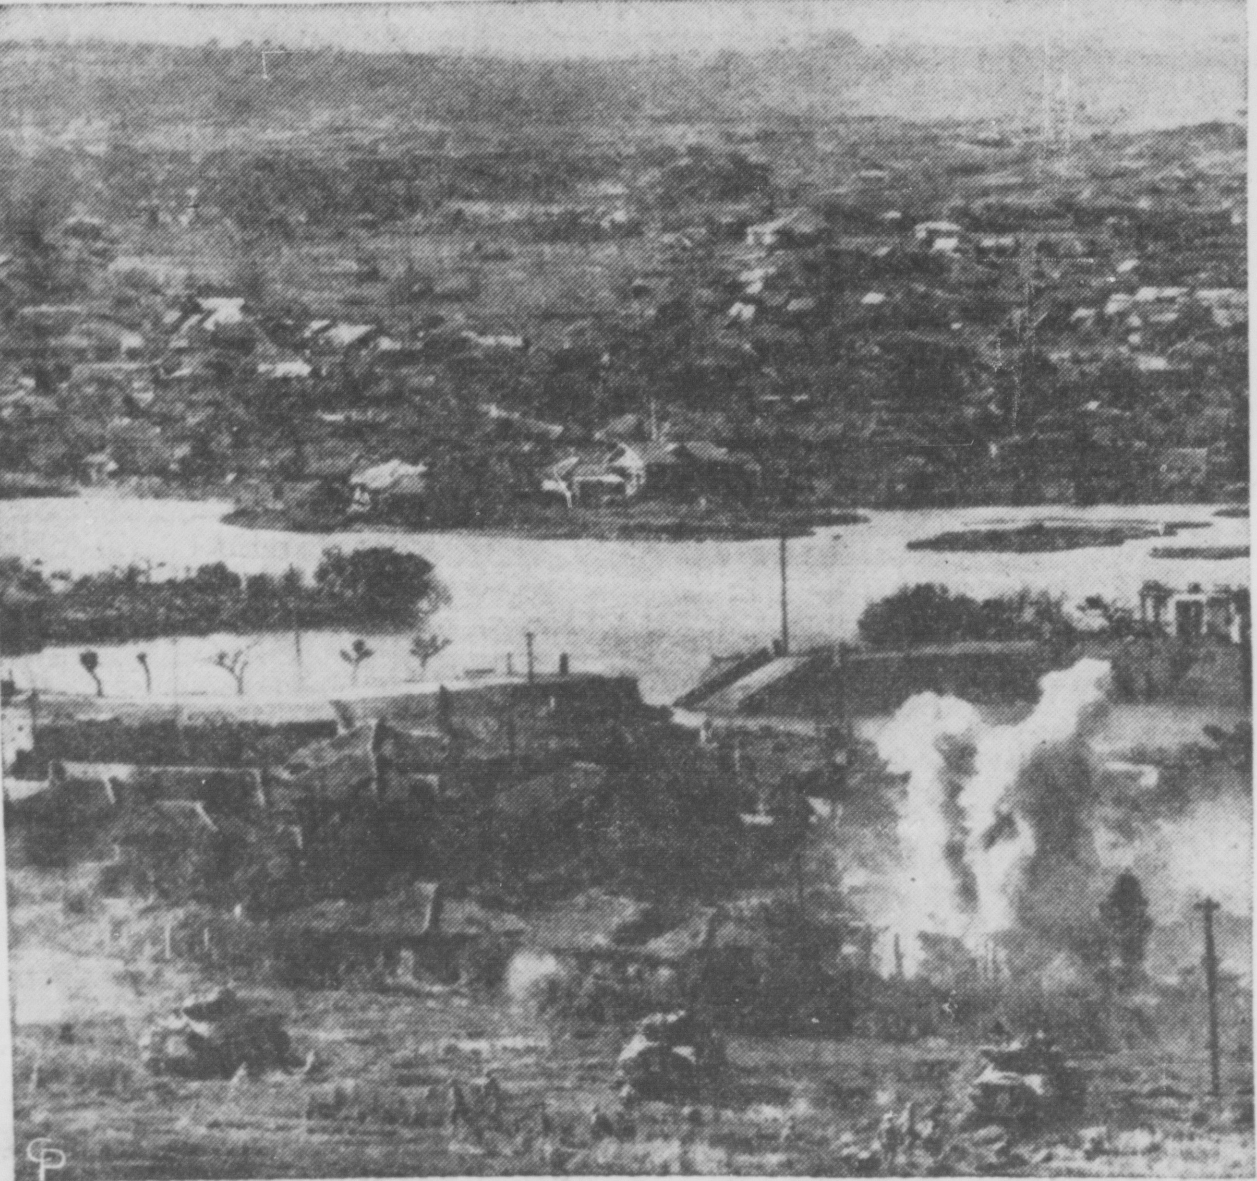

WASHINGTON, May 31—U. S. combat casualties in this war passed 1,000,000 today.

Military losses as announced officially here reached 1,002,887, an increase of 6,798 over a week ago. The total included 890,019 Army and 112,868 Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties.

The overall total, including only those casualties which have been tabulated and announced in Washington, was nearly four times the World War I total of 259,735 for all services.

The week's increase was almost evenly divided between the two major branches. The Army's total rose 3,494 while the Navy's, reflecting heavy losses off Okinawa, climbed 3,304.

Little Nations Showing Impatience At Big Power Delay On Vote Answers

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31—The "little" United Nations displayed mounting impatience today at the big five delay in answering their questions about the Yalta voting formula for the United Nations world organization.

The nearly two-week delay has slowed other conference progress. Nothing more can be done on almost half of the major unsettled questions until there is a decision on the big five veto issue.

The little nations conceded privately that they probably will have to acquiesce to the veto power as it stands. As a result they are preparing to direct most of their fire against the Dumbarton Oaks clause which gives each of the big five a veto over any future amendment of the charter.

Evidence of how the lack of a final decision is slowing conference progress came at the first working commission session yesterday. A committee had recommended that the veto not be applicable on nomination of the secretary-general of the new organization—that the nomination would be a majority of any seven of the 11 security council members.

When this point came before the commission, Soviet delegate K. V. Novikov objected to approval and (Continued on Page Two)

POLES, CZECHS FACE DISPUTE OVER TESCHEN

LONDON, May 31—The prospect of a Polish-Czechoslovakian territorial dispute was raised today when radio Prague announced that Czechoslovakian nationals living in the Silesian border city of Teschen have asked to be incorporated into Czechoslovakia.

The broadcast said Czechoslovakians in Teschen had telegraphed the Prague government asking that their city be "reorganized in such a way that it becomes a true home for Czechs and Slovaks, together with all other parts of the Czechoslovak republic."

The Russian-sponsored Polish provisional government in Warsaw already had laid claim to the Teschen area, which was seized by Poland after the Munich agreement in 1938.

40 ARE KILLED OVER HOLIDAY

Traffic Casualties 10; Drownings, Shootings Add To Toll

By United Press

At least 40 violent deaths were counted today as an aftermath to the nation's holiday honoring its heroes felled in battle.

Of this number, traffic casualties were estimated at 10, as compared to a death toll of 50 forecast by the National Safety Council. The council's figures, compiled on the basis of past experience, include those persons hurt on Memorial Day who die later of their injuries.

Preliminary reports from United Press bureaus throughout the country listed, in addition to traffic deaths, seven drownings, three stabbings, two shootings, two chemical explosion casualties and 13 miscellaneous deaths.

Pennsylvania, reporting eight deaths, had the largest holiday toll. Three brothers were fatally burned when their car was struck by the Pennsylvania railroad's crack Liberty limited passenger train outside Pittsburgh. Two others died in automobile collisions, and three miscellaneous deaths were listed.

Michigan ranked second with six deaths, including one traffic accident, one drowning, two stabbings. (Continued on Page Two)

Direct War Cost So Far Exceeds Trillion Dollars

WASHINGTON, May 31—Direct war costs of all countries so far in this conflict exceed a trillion dollars. That is $1,000,000,000,000—a thousand billions, a million millions.

Money spent on this war since Germany began arming in 1934 would, if divided up, give more than $500 to every man, woman and child in the world.

Researchers of the American university here came up with these estimates today after months of study.

They don't include the vast damage to public and private property—just the amounts laid out to finance the war to date.

The United States government alone has poured out more than one-fourth of the world total in the current conflict. Our share so far is $280,000,000,000.

POINTS HIKE ON TOMATOES AND SPINACH

Ration Values Reduced On Some Juices; Tomatoes Will Be 40 Points

MEAT WILL BE SCARCER

OPA Says Rations Will Be Unchanged But Civilians To Get 7 Percent Less

WASHINGTON, May 31—Lower point values in June for tomato and mixed vegetable juices and higher values for canned tomatoes and canned spinach were announced today by the Office of Price Administration.

The new values take effect June 3 and continue through June 30.

Raising of canned tomato point values to 40 points, the highest for tomatoes to date, came as Chairman Elmer Thomas, D. Okla., of the senate food committee declared that tomatoes and a lot of other processed foods should be off the ration list entirely.

Thomas charged OPA officials of keeping canned goods rationed "because they want to keep their jobs."

Along with the processed food changes OPA announced that point values for most meats, fats and oils would remain undisturbed for the June period but warned that there would be seven per cent less meat for civilians than the meager supplies available in May.

He said there would be 6,700,000 pounds less beef, 12,300,000 pounds less pork 600,000 pounds less lamb but 5,300,000 pounds more veal and 1,000,000 pounds more mutton.

Values for fatback or salt pork were increased three points bringing them to eight points a pound, plate bacon the same and pork sides, aged and dry cured, one point to nine points a pound. Lard, shortening, salad and cooking oils were left at 10 points a pound, margarine at 12 points and creamery butter at 24.

Canned tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations containing 70 per cent juice were set at two cans (up to and including the No. 2½ size) for one blue ration stamp (10 points). Cans bought singly, however, still require one blue stamp (except for the No. 10 size).

This made the second two-cans-for-one-stamp deal OPA has offered. Green beans were first to gain that status last month.

Spinach was increased 10 points for both No. 2 and 2½ cans—sending them up to 20 and 30 points respectively. Tomatoes were in (Continued on Page Two)

STRICT CONTROL OF FARM LAND PURCHASES SEEN

WASHINGTON, May 31—President Truman's stabilization board may shortly recommend tighter controls over farm land purchases, urban home buying and the nation's security markets.

An administration source disclosed today that a tentative draft of the program to prevent "boom and bust" speculation in these so-called capital assets has been placed before Stabilization Director William H. Davis.

Some changes are expected to be made before the plan is finally approved by Davis and the 15-member board. It now calls for strict limitation in credit for buying farm land, down payments of 35 per cent on purchases of residential property and increased marginal requirements in the acquisition of stock market shares.

Some parts of the program can be put in effect by Davis but others would require a presidential order or legislation, it was said.

The board has become alarmed by an "unusual" increase in prices paid for farm lands, it was stated. The spurt is regarded as a "land grab" for speculative purposes and it is felt that much of the purchase money should be diverted to soil improvement.

Gen. Clark Takes Over In Chicago

City Gives Italian Hero And 52 Of His Men Rousing Welcome

CHICAGO, May 31—Gen. Mark W. Clark, credited with routing the Nazis from Italy, was in full spiritual possession of Chicago today.

The general and 52 of his 5th army heroes dropped out of the skies yesterday and captured the hearts of Chicagoans.

Clark was the first to step from the silvery transport which set its wheels down in Chicago just 28 hours after taking off from Paris.

For 18 Chicagoans in the party, and for the general who attended high school here, it was a real homecoming. For all of them, however, it was the first sight of U. S. soil after the mud and misery of war.

Long before the planes were due to arrive, thousands jammed the streets along the municipal airport and countless others lined the boulevards leading to Chicago's loop.

Finally, a cloud of 35 planes appeared on the horizon, shepherding a giant silvery transport. Another transport came into view. And a third.

After a few words of greeting from Mayor Edward J. Kelley, the party paraded downtown, where Clark delivered a Memorial Day address. He climbed onto the speaker's platform with the acclaim of the crowd in his ears and the boom of a 17-gun salute echoing over Grant park and the lake front.

"We are deeply grateful for this fine tribute," the warlord said. "But we also know that you are doing this to pay honor to the men who are still on the battlefields and those who never will return."

GERMANS SOLVE MEAT SHORTAGE FOR THEMSELVES

12TH ARMY GROUP HDQ., GERMANY, May 31—The defeated Germans have solved their meat shortage in some instances better than dispatches from home indicate America has done.

German butcher shops have organized, and now they send agents into the country to buy up meat. When the meat is brought in, it is distributed among all the butcher shops.

Military government officials said that is only one example of how the Germans in the past two weeks have gone to work to get themselves back on their feet. They are sullen, but they are working, and trying to solve their problems.

When the American authorities announced a food ration of 1,050 calories daily, the Germans protested it was too much.

"We must cut it to 750 or 800 calories daily," they said, "or else there won't be enough food to last five weeks."

TAKE OFFENSIVE IN CHINA

Rising Sun Navy Receiving Suicide Training; Help Of Civilians Asked

By United Press

Allied victories piled up in Okinawa and China today, and Japan rallied for a desperate defense of her homeland.

Developments in the quickening Pacific war included:

Okinawa — Tenth army forces captured Shuri castle and most of the city of Shuri, then forged a double encirclement of perhaps thousands of troops still holding out in the city's outer defenses.

China — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of U. S. forces in China, said Allied forces were shifting from the defense to the offensive in China with the future bright. Chinese troops captured 180 miles of Japan's lifeline corridor across China. Japanese troops fired and abandoned the former American air base city of Luichow and nearby Luiching in central Kwangsi province.

Philippines — American bombers dropped more than 500 tons of bombs on holdout Japanese positions on Luzon. The last Japanese remnants were cleared from Wawa dam east of Manila. On Mindanao, American forces began a drive to cut the Japanese escape route from a pocket northwest of Davao.

Guam — Admiral Chester W. Nimitz welcomed the British fleet to the Pacific and denounced "irresponsible" statements that the United States resented its presence. The British commander promised that Britain will use everything she can to help defeat Japan.

Japan — Radio Tokyo said all branches of the Japanese navy were being trained in suicide attacks and called on the entire population of Japan to prepare to repel American invaders.

On southern Okinawa, Marines of the first division raised the stars and stripes over shell-torn Shuri castle, formerly Japanese army headquarters, at 1:45 p. m. yesterday. The castle's underground caverns had been sealed by the Japanese before they fled.

Brig. Gen. Pedro Del Valle, commander of the Marine division, said his forces now controlled the whole of the ruined city of Shuri though its occupation had not been completed.

KAISER AWAITS APPROVAL FOR NEW EXPANSION

OAKLAND, CALIF., May 31—Shipbuilding czar Henry J. Kaiser said today he was awaiting only a government okay before moving into new production fields.

Kaiser, who has been conferring on "total postwar employment" with President R. J. Thomas of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said he already had completed several models of a new lightweight car as well as four types of private airplanes.

"Our plans have and always will be flexible and influenced by the conditions which arise," Kaiser said.

Greatest obstacle to immediate decision on Kaiser-interest expansion, he said, was the pending reconversion of his $110,000 Fontana, Calif., steel plant to a peacetime basis. The reconstruction finance corporation has been asked to approve a $60,000,000 loan from private banks to keep ownership of the plant in Kaiser's hands.

Thomas said that he had urged Kaiser to enter the automotive industry to guarantee employment throughout the nation.

The union leader said his conference with the miracle man of wartime shipping was prompted by "the lack of enough concise planning on the reemployment problem in Washington."

Along with the processed food changes OPA announced that point values for most meats, fats and oils would remain undisturbed for the June period but warned that there would be seven per cent less meat for civilians than the meager supplies available in May.

He said there would be 6,700,000 pounds less beef, 12,300,000 pounds less pork 600,000 pounds less lamb but 5,300,000 pounds more veal and 1,000,000 pounds more mutton.

Values for fatback or salt pork were increased three points bringing them to eight points a pound, plate bacon the same and pork sides, aged and dry cured, one point to nine points a pound. Lard, shortening, salad and cooking oils were left at 10 points a pound, margarine at 12 points and creamery butter at 24.

Canned tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations containing 70 per cent juice were set at two cans (up to and including the No. 2½ size) for one blue ration stamp (10 points). Cans bought singly, however, still require one blue stamp (except for the No. 10 size).

This made the second two-cans-for-one-stamp deal OPA has offered. Green beans were first to gain that status last month.

Spinach was increased 10 points for both No. 2 and 2½ cans—sending them up to 20 and 30 points respectively. Tomatoes were in-

STRICT CONTROL OF FARM LAND PURCHASES SEEN

WASHINGTON, May 31—President Truman's stabilization board may shortly recommend tighter controls over farm land purchases, urban home buying and the nation's security markets.

An administration source disclosed today that a tentative draft of the program to prevent "boom and bust" speculation in these so-called capital assets has been placed before Stabilization Director William H. Davis.

Some changes are expected to be made before the plan is finally approved by Davis and the 15-member board. It now calls for strict limitation in credit for buying farm land, down payments of 35 per cent on purchases of residential property and increased marginal requirements in the acquisition of stock market shares.

Some parts of the program can be put in effect by Davis but others would require a presidential order or legislation, it was said.

The board has become alarmed by an "unusual" increase in prices paid for farm lands, it was stated. The spurt is regarded as a "land grab" for speculative purposes and it is felt that much of the purchase money should be diverted into soil improvement.

Gen. Clark Takes Over In Chicago

City Gives Italian Hero And 52 Of His Men Rousing Welcome

CHICAGO, May 31—Gen. Mark W. Clark, credited with routing the Nazis from Italy, was in full spiritual possession of Chicago today.

The general and 52 of his 5th army heroes dropped out of the skies yesterday and captured the hearts of Chicagoans.

Clark was the first to step from the silvery transport which set its wheels down in Chicago just 28 hours after taking off from Paris.

For 18 Chicagoans in the party, and for the general who attended high school here, it was a real homecoming. For all of them, however, it was the first sight of U. S. soil after the mud and misery of war.

Long before the planes were due to arrive, thousands jammed the streets along the municipal airport and countless others lined the boulevards leading to Chicago's loop.

Finally, a cloud of 35 planes appeared on the horizon, shepherding a giant silvery transport. Another transport came into view.

After a few words of greeting from Mayor Edward J. Kelley, the party paraded downtown, where Clark delivered a Memorial Day address. He climbed onto the speaker's platform with the acclaim of the crowd in his ears and the boom of a 17-gun salute echoing over Grant park and the lake front.

"We are deeply grateful for this fine tribute," the warior said. "But we also know that you are doing this to pay honor to the men who are still on the battlefields and those who never will return."

The tumultuous crowd became

GERMANS SOLVE MEAT SHORTAGE FOR THEMSELVES

12TH ARMY GROUP HDQ., GERMANY, May 31—The defeated Germans have solved their meat shortage in some instances better than dispatches from home indicate America has done.

German butcher shops have organized, and now they send agents into the country to buy up meat. When the meat is brought in, it is distributed among all the butcher shops.

Military government officials said that is only one example of how the Germans in the past two weeks have gone to work to get themselves back on their feet. They are sullen, but they are working, and trying to solve their problems.

When the American authorities announced a food ration of 1,050 calories daily, the Germans protested it was too much.

"We must cut it to 750 or 800 calories daily," they said. "Or else there won't be enough food to last five weeks."

TAKE OFFENSIVE IN CHINA

Rising Sun Navy Receiving Suicide Training; Help Of Civilians Asked

By United Press
Allied victories piled up in Okinawa and China today, and Japan rallied for a desperate defense of her homeland.

Developments in the quickening Pacific war included:

Okinawa — Tenth army forces captured Shuri castle and most of the city of Shuri, then forged a double encirclement of perhaps thousands of troops still holding out in the city's outer defenses.

China — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of U. S. forces in China, said Allied forces were shifting from the defense to the offensive in China with the future bright. Chinese troops captured 180 miles of Japan's lifeline corridor across China. Japanese troops fired and abandoned the former American air base city of Luchow and nearby Luiching in central Kwangsi province.

Philippines — American bombers dropped more than 500 tons of bombs on holdout Japanese positions on Luzon. The last Japanese remnants were cleared from Wawa dam east of Manila. On Mindanao, American forces began a drive to cut the Japanese escape route from a pocket northwest of Davao.

Guam — Admiral Chester W. Nimitz welcomed the British fleet to the Pacific and denounced "irresponsible" statements that the United States resented its presence. The British commander promised that Britain will use everything she can to help defeat Japan.

Japan — Radio Tokyo said all branches of the Japanese navy were being trained in suicide attacks and called on the entire population of Japan to prepare to repel American invaders.

On southern Okinawa, Marines of the first division raised the stars and stripes over shell-torn Shuri castle, formerly Japanese army headquarters, at 1:45 p. m. yesterday. The castle's underground caverns had been sealed by the Japanese before they fled.

Brig. Gen. Pedro Del Valle, commander of the Marine division, said his forces now controlled the whole of the ruined city of Shuri though its occupation had not been completed.

Japanese suicide squads still were holding out northwest, north.

KAISER AWAITS APPROVAL FOR NEW EXPANSION

OAKLAND, CALIF., May 31—Shipbuilding Czar Henry J. Kaiser said today he was awaiting only a government okay before moving into new production fields.

Kaiser, who has been conferring on "total postwar employment" with President R. J. Thomas of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said he already had completed several models of a new lightweight car as well as four types of private airplanes.

"Our plans have and always will be flexible and influenced by the conditions which arise," Kaiser said.

Greatest obstacle to immediate decision on Kaiser-interest expansion, he said, was the pending reconversion of his $110,000 Fontana, Calif., steel plant to a peacetime basis. The reconstruction finance corporation has been asked to approve a $60,000,000 loan from private banks to keep ownership of the plant in Kaiser's hands.

Thomas said that he had urged Kaiser to enter the automotive industry to guarantee employment throughout the nation.

The union leader said his conference with the miracle man of wartime shipping was prompted by "the lack of enough concise planning on the reemployment problem in Washington."

east and southeast of Shuri, but all were threatened with encirclement.

The 77th army division collapsed the northeastern defenses of Shuri and rolled ahead to within a few hundred yards of Marines at Shuri castle, virtually trapping the units to the north and northwest.

More than a mile south of Shuri, two other divisions driving inland from the east and west coasts were less than 2,000 yards from a junction that would trap remaining enemy troops in the Shuri area.

Through 30,000 Japanese still remained on southern Okinawa, they had lost their best defense line with the American conquest of Shuri, Naha and the east coast port of Yonabaru. The end of the Okinawa campaign, now in its 61st day, was in sight.

General Wedemeyer told American newsmen in Chungking that the Allied campaign in China now definitely was "on the upgrade."

"I am very optimistic over future military developments in China," he said.

He believed the Japanese soon may abandon their whole corridor linking Shanghai and occupied North China with Hong Kong, Bangkok and Singapore.

On the east China coast, other Chinese forces swept 45 miles north of captured Poochow to take Ningteh, then rolled on another 10 miles to the south bank of the Kiao river. This gave the Chinese a 50-mile arc along the coastline—a possible gateway for an American invasion.

A Tokyo radio commentator said the shakeup of the Japanese navy high command two days ago was designed to ready all branches for suicide tactics as the Allied threat to their homeland gained steadily.

The broadcast indicated the Japanese might be preparing to sacrifice destroyers and other units of their diminishing fleet in hopeless attacks against the overwhelmingly superior American fleet. The enemy already was using suicide planes and small boats against American warships.

To Attend Luncheon

At a committee meeting, Tuesday evening plans were completed for the part that the local Business and Professional Women's club will play at the luncheon of the Ohio Federation of B & P W clubs to be held in the Neil house, Columbus, Sunday to honor the National President, Miss Margaret Hickey of St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Alma Rains, state chairman of the Florence Allen educational fund will attend all the sessions of the Federation which will start Friday. Her membership on the board makes her eligible to vote on the officers for the coming year and gives the local club an extra vote. Voting was done by mail this year because of the travel restrictions but those members who represented the choice of the club were the members of the committee who met Tuesday, Mrs. Olan Bostwick, retiring president, Miss Rose Good, Mrs. Harriett Hennis, Mrs. J. B. Work and Miss Bess Gordon.

Mrs. Bostwick will assist Mrs. Flora Huffman, president of the Columbus club when she will be hostess at the Sunday luncheon for Miss Hickey.

Mrs. Huffman will be remembered as the speaker at the banquet for the girls of the Circleville high school graduating class when they were feted by the local club.

The address to be given by Miss Hickey at the Sunday luncheon will be broadcast over Station WBNS from 12 to 12:30 o'clock. She will give a summary of the San Francisco conference in which she participated.

Those who plan to attend the luncheon from Circleville are Mrs. Bostwick, Miss Rains, Miss Good, Mrs. Guy Campbell, Miss Gordon and Miss Mary Lutz.

Mothers-Daughters Feted

suddenly hushed as the general requested a moment of silent prayer for "those who won the victory for us."

Not until Clark's speech was finished did his eyes light upon his wife in the grandstand. He rushed to her and, before all the spectators, kissed her vigorously—the kind of a kiss a man gives his wife when he hasn't seen her in more than a year.

The general's address was dedicated to the men who made victory in Europe possible.

Standing straight and tall and smiling but with the lines of grave times still clinging to his mouth, he recounted the long and difficult war in Italy.

Clark spoke of the Poles, the Austrians, the Italians, the American-Japanese, the negroes of the "glorious 92nd division" and others who had helped win the final victory.

In the evening, Clark and the members of his party were feted at a banquet at which Mayor Kelly presented him with a gold medal—"not a military medal but a medal from we civilians."

At a press conference preceding the dinner, General Clark said he believed the Trieste situation could be settled amicably with Marshal Tito's compliance with Allied peace conference plans.

"I was at Trieste three or four days ago and it was perfectly quiet then," Clark said.

When asked about his next assignment, the 5th army commander replied merely, "I wish I knew."

TROOPS ORDERED TO HALT BLOODY LEVANT BATTLES

Armed Intervention Between French And Arabs Called For By Churchill

They were about a mile apart but spreading swiftly.

Eden said the British and American civilian colonies were evacuated from Damascus during a brief armistice yesterday afternoon. Then the center of the city was subjected to a very heavy and concentrated French artillery bombardment and French warplanes roared in to bomb the Syrian garrison.

Cries of "shame" arose in the house when Eden revealed that bombs had been dropped on the biblical city.

Eden emphasized that Britain had been "immensely anxious" to avoid intervention in the Levant, but he reiterated that the threat to British and American supply lines to the far eastern war theatre had become too serious to ignore.

"We have not acted until our overall responsibility was so serious that we simply had to act or stand by and see a situation develop which would have shamed us all," he said.

The British cabinet, he added, is in constant communication with the United States government on the situation.

He then read the following message sent by Churchill to De Gaulle:

"In view of the grave situation which has arisen between our troops and the Levant states, and the severe fighting which has broken out, we have with profound regret ordered the (British) commander-in-chief in the middle east to intervene to prevent further effusion of blood in the interests of the whole middle east, which involves communications for the war against Japan."

"In order to avoid a collision between British and French forces, we request you immediately to order French troops to cease fire and to withdraw to their barracks."

"Once firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tri-partite discussions here in London."

Dispatches from Beyrouth earlier today said the Syrian chamber of deputies in Damascus was in ruins after yesterday's fighting.

served notice that he was appealing the committee decision to the steering committee, which is composed of the chairmen of all the 49 delegations.

When the committee originally eliminated the big power veto over nomination of the secretary-general, the little nations had hailed it as another victory. But yesterday's commission action made them reconsider—and wonder how permanent are the "victories" they have chalked up in committees.

The conference moved at a snail's pace with committees reporting only minor progress yesterday.

The little nation delegates have been doing a lot of talking in recent days about the veto issue. Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt has even predicted that "a distinct majority" of the conference is against the big power veto over peaceful settlement of disputes.

But the big powers have indirectly warned the little ones not to go too far—not to use their preponderance of votes to get something into the charter which might keep some or all of the big powers out of it.

That attitude was expressed in the committee on the world court other countries on munitions to make the all-belligerent grand total $1,030,000,000,000.

The university listed these expenditures by countries:

Allies—United States $280,000,000,000; Russia, $170,000,000,000; Great Britain, $65,200,000,000; France, $13,000,000,000; South American countries, $9,278,000,000; Canada, $6,814,000,000; Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, $4,620,000,000; Belgium, $3,600,000,000; Poland, $2,000,000,000; Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000,000; The Netherlands, $1,000,000,000; Yugoslavia, $220,000,000; Greece, $165,000,000; and Norway, $93,000,000.

These sums include expenditures through the first six months of 1945 by those Allied countries which never were conquered by the Axis and expenditures to the time of their fall by the countries which were conquered.

Axis—Germany, $258,000,000,000; Italy, $94,000,000,000; and Japan $44,000,000,000.

These figures include expenditures through 1944. In addition, the university estimated that Germany and Japan spent $46,000,000,000 more in the first four months of 1945. The total for Japan, the researchers conceded, is "a pure estimate." They arrived at it in consultation with "three far eastern experts."

Douglas said the war has been costing the world more than $260,000,000,000 a year for the past three years.

"If all money spent on this war since 1934 (when Germany began arming) was distributed equally to all people of the world," he said, "every man, woman and child in the world would receive a sum of more than $500."

In low living-standard countries like India, he added, "this amount would be a fortune."

The university said its figures did not purport to be exact. But the overall total, it added, "can be considered good statistics on the world's direct war expenditures."

"The information we acquired after considerable research into financial reports and estimates," Douglas said, "showed that the total sum could not possibly fall under the trillion-dollar mark."

Helena, wife of King Christian's brother, Prince Harald, was flown to Glucksborg near the German-Danish border yesterday and ordered never to return to Denmark.

The opening session of the conference here was addressed by Lord Wright, chairman of the war crimes commission. A censored version of his speech was to be made public this afternoon. A spokesman said "certain statistics" and "references to Japanese war criminals" probably would be eliminated from the version released.

The commission has compiled a list of over 300 key industrialists, bankers, and leaders of various professions who supported the Nazi regime. The list includes Franz von Papen, Hitler's wily No. 1 diplomat. Some members of the commission favor indicting these men and they hoped the conference would lay down a policy to make that possible.

Lt. Col. Joseph Hodgson, American member of the commission, will address the conference tomorrow. The American representatives included Brig. Gen. E. C. KANSAS CITY, Mo. May 31—Ray E. Davis, cornered in the storeroom home where he killed his daughter Tuesday night in a fit of jealous rage, attempted suicide today but a policeman's bullet ended his life.

Surprised as he slept, Davis fired one shot into his own body as Lt. Charles Welch, homicide chief; Chester Grak, a detective and a reporter, closed in on him. He screamed as he fired the intended suicide shot, then ran toward the front door. Welch took one shot at the thin-faced 140-pound furnace repairman as he ran at him. Davis whirled, dropped and was pronounced dead five minutes later.

Welch's bullet caught him below the heart. The detectives acted on a hunch when informed Davis called relatives earlier today, threatening to take his own life.

To Attend Luncheon

At a committee meeting, Tuesday evening plans were completed for the part that the local Business and Professional Women's club will play at the luncheon of the Ohio Federation of B & P W clubs to be held in the Neil house, Columbus, Sunday to honor the National President, Miss Margaret Hickey of St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Alma Rains, state chairman of the Florence Allen educational fund will attend all the sessions of the Federation which will start Friday. Her membership on the board makes her eligible to vote on the officers for the coming year and gives the local club an extra vote. Voting was done by mail this year because of the travel restrictions but those members who represented the choice of the club were the members of the committee who met Tuesday. Mrs. Olan Bostwick, retiring president, Miss Rose Good, Mrs. Harriett Hennis, Mrs. J. B. Work and Miss Bess Gordon.

Mrs. Bostwick will assist Mrs. Flora Huffman, president of the Columbus club when she will be hostess at the Sunday luncheon for Miss Hickey.

Mrs. Huffman will be remembered as the speaker at the banquet for the girls of the Circleville high school graduating class when they were feted by the local club.

The address to be given by Miss Hickey at the Sunday luncheon will be broadcast over Station WBNS from 12 to 12:30 o'clock. She will give a summary of the San Francisco conference in which she participated.

Those who plan to attend the luncheon from Circleville are Mrs. Bostwick, Miss Rains, Miss Good, Mrs. Guy Campbell, Miss Gordon and Miss Mary Lutz.

Gen. Clark Takes Over In Chicago

suddenly hushed as the general requested a moment of silent prayer for "those who won the victory for us."

Not until Clark's speech was finished did his eyes light upon his wife in the grandstand. He rushed to her and, before all the spectators, kissed her vigorously—the kind of a kiss a man gives his wife when he hasn't seen her in more than a year.

The general's address was dedicated to the men who made victory in Europe possible.

Standing straight and tall and smiling but with the lines of grave times still clinging to his mouth, he recounted the long and difficult war in Italy.

Clark spoke of the Poles, the Austrians, the Italians, the American-Japanese, the negroes of the "glorious 892nd division" and others who had helped win the final victory.

In the evening, Clark and the members of his party were feted at a banquet at which Mayor Kelly presented him with a gold medal—"not a military medal but a medal from we civilians."

At a press conference preceding the dinner, General Clark said he believed the Trieste situation could be settled amicably with Marshal Tito's compliance with Allied peace conference plans.

"I was at Trieste three or four days ago and it was perfectly quiet then," Clark said.

When asked about his next assignment, the 5th army commander replied merely, "I wish I knew."

TROOPS ORDERED TO HALT BLOODY LEVANT BATTLES

They were about a mile apart but spreading swiftly.

Eden said the British and American civilian colonies were evacuated from Damascus during a brief armistice yesterday afternoon. Then the center of the city was subjected to a very heavy and concentrated French artillery bombardment and French warplanes roared in to bomb the Syrian garrison.

Cries of "shame" arose in the house when Eden revealed that bombs had been dropped on the biblical city.

Eden emphasized that Britain had been "immensely anxious" to avoid intervention in the Levant, but he reiterated that the threat to British and American supply lines to the far eastern war theatre had become too serious to ignore.

"We have not acted until our overall responsibility was so serious that we simply had to act or stand by and see a situation develop which would have shamed us all," he said.

The British cabinet, he added, is in constant communication with the United States government on the situation.

He then read the following message sent by Churchill to De Gaulle:

"In view of the grave situation which has arisen between your troops and the Levant states, and the severe fighting which has broken out, we have with profound regret ordered the (British) commander-in-chief in the middle east to intervene to prevent further effusion of blood in the interests of the whole middle east, which involves communications for the war against Japan."

"In order to avoid a collision between British and French forces, we request you immediately to order French troops to cease fire and to withdraw to their barracks."

"Once firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tri-partite discussions here in London."

Dispatches from Beyrouth earlier today said the Syrian chamber of deputies in Damascus was in ruins after yesterday's fighting.

Little Nations Showing Impatience At Big Power Delay On Vote Answers

served notice that he was appealing the committee decision to the steering committee, which is composed of the chairmen of all the 49 delegations.

When the committee originally eliminated the big power veto over nomination of the secretary-general, the little nations had hailed it as another victory. But yesterday's commission action made them reconsider—and wonder how permanent are the "victories" they have chalked up in committees.

The conference moved at a snail's pace with committees reporting only minor progress yesterday.

The little nation delegates have been doing a lot of talking in recent days about the veto issue. Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt has even predicted that "a distinct majority" of the conference is against the big power veto over peaceful settlement of disputes.

But the big powers have indirectly warned the little ones not to go too far—not to use their preponderance of votes to get something into the charter which might keep some or all of the big powers out of it.

That attitude was expressed in the committee on the world court

other countries on munitions to make the all-belligerent grand total $1,030,000,000,000.

The university listed these expenditures by countries:

Allies—United States $280,000,000,000; Russia, $170,000,000,000; Great Britain, $65,000,000,000; France, $13,000,000,000; South American countries, $9,275,000,000; Canada, $6,814,000,000; Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, $4,620,000,000; Belgium, $3,600,000,000; Poland, $2,000,000,000; Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000,000; The Netherlands, $1,000,000,000; Yugoslavia, $220,000,000; Greece, $165,000,000; and Norway, $93,000,000.

These sums include expenditures through the first six months of 1945 by those Allied countries which never were conquered by the Axis and expenditures to the time of their fall by the countries which were conquered.

Axix—Germany, $258,900,000,000; Italy, $94,000,000,000; and Japan $44,000,000,000.

These figures include expenditures through 1944. In addition, the university estimated that Germany and Japan spent $46,000,000,000 more in the first four months of 1945. The total for Japan, the researchers conceded, is "a pure estimate." They arrived at it in consultation with "three far eastern experts."

Douglas said the war has been costing the world more than $260,000,000,000 a year for the past three years.

"If all money spent on this war since 1934 (when Germany began arming) was distributed equally to all people of the world," he said, "every man, woman and child in the world would receive a sum of more than $500."

In low living-standard countries like India, he added, "this amount would be a fortune."

The university said its figures did not purport to be exact. But the overall total, it added, "can be considered good statistics on the world's direct war expenditures."

"The information we acquired after considerable research into financial reports and estimates," Douglas said, "showed that the total sum could not possibly fall under the trillion-dollar mark."

where the question of compulsory or optional jurisdiction is being debated. Virtually all nations except Russia and the United States favor compulsory jurisdiction.

The United States' attitude on the amendment veto was understood not to have been determined yet. Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., however, is known to feel that nothing should be placed in the charter that would give the impression the new league is to be a provisional organization.

Other conference action:

1.—Decision by the economic and social council committee to send the so-called Australian pledge back to a drafting committee. Australia would pledge all members to "take action" to fulfill the organization's objectives; the U. S. wants to soften it to read that all members will "undertake to cooperate" to do the same.

2.—Completion by a drafting subcommittee of a preamble to the world charter. It will be a combination of one submitted by South African Marshal Jan C. Smuts and one by the U. S. delegate. It will start like the U. S. constitution with these words: "We the people of the united nations."

3.—Authoritative reports that Denmark will be admitted to the conference within a few days as the 50th participant.

Jealous Father Dies Where He Shot Daughter

Ray E. Davis, cornered in the storehouse home where he killed his daughter Tuesday night in a fit of jealous rage, attempted suicide today but a policeman's bullet ended his life.

Surprised as he slept, Davis fired one shot into his own body as Lt. Charles Welch, homicide chief, Chester Grak, a detective and a reporter, closed in on him. He screamed as he fired the intended suicide shot, then ran toward the front door. Welch took one shot at the thin-faced 140-pound furnace repairman as he ran at him. Davis whirled, dropped and was pronounced dead five minutes later.

Welch's bullet caught him below the heart. The detectives acted on a hunch when informed Davis called relatives earlier today, threatening to take his own life.

created 10 points for the No. 2 size can, fixing it at 40 points. OPA said tomatoes have been selling faster than the supply can stand so that point increase was necessary "to slow them down."

There were no point values on tomatoes last Summer. OPA said as victory gardens began producing the present high value probably will fall.

Thomas told a reporter he had "information" which convinced him that canned peaches, pears, pineapples, mixed fruits, fruit juices, corn, peas, tomatoes and catsup no longer should be rationed.

He said he would call an executive session of his committee early next week as a result of what he had learned. He said secret witnesses will "give the inside on the way OPA is operating."

He asserted that OPA "doesn't want to give up anything it ever rationed. If anybody down there so much as suggests it, out he goes."

Thomas cited the case of a former $1,400-a-year school teacher who, he said he had been told, is now making "more than $8,000 a year" with OPA.

"Naturally, he doesn't want to go back to teaching school at $1,400," Thomas declared, "and I can't blame him. But it certainly is not in the public interest."

The senator said he wanted to get his information "on the record" because the senate next week will take up legislation approved by its banking committee

Daniels-Cramer Bill Gains Approval Of House; May Pass Over Veto

COLUMBUS, May 31—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today was headed for almost certain defeat in his drawn-out battle against the Daniels-Cramer bill to give schools a $16,000,000 increase in state aid during the next two years.

Lausche lost another round this week when the house by a vote of 105-20 passed the bill after a blunt warning by Rep. Ralph A. Siferd, R., Auglaize, that if necessary it would be re-passed over the veto of the "lone wolf from Cuyahoga."

Particularly significant was the fact that 26 members of the governor's own Democratic party joined 94 Republicans in voting for the bill. Only 17 Democrats and three Republicans, including Majority Leader Robert R. Shaw, R., Franklin, opposed the measure.

Lausche still refused to say definitely whether he would veto the bill if it reached his desk in its present form. He repeated previous warnings, however, that the state may have to find new sources of revenue to meet the added costs of schools if the bill becomes law.

"In this period when money is abundant," he said, "instead of saving a part of these revenues, we obviously are intent upon spending them all. I don't believe the taxpayers will subscribe to that policy."

Even if Lausche were to veto the bill, it was doubtful that opponents of the measure could rally enough votes to uphold the veto. Only 80 votes—or a three fifths majority—would be necessary to re-pass the bill in the house.

Even the censors on duty here couldn't be sure what "other matters" might mean. Correspondents thought it conceivably could mean any and all copy.

The directive also said that copy would continue to be filed in the usual way, which meant that it had to go through SHAEF censorship before going to communications companies.

Lee Mapes Sticks His Neck Out

We had a meeting at the Town Hall Friday night, and when Homer Bently spoke up for a new roof for the schoolhouse, Lee Mapes interrupts him.

"How long you been in this town?" Lee demands.

"Fourteen years," says Homer proudly.

"Then you keep quiet!" says Lee. "We can't have transients running things in our town."

I'm glad to report that all of us voted Lee down and let Homer have his say. I'm glad not just because the school did need a new roof, but because it doesn't do to let intolerance and prejudice creep into a community.

Lee Mapes Sticks His Neck Out

We had a meeting at the Town Hall Friday night, and when Homer Bently spoke up for a new roof for the schoolhouse, Lee Mapes interrupts him.

"How long you been in this town?" Lee demands.

"Fourteen years," says Homer proudly.

"Then you keep quiet!" says Lee. "We can't have transients running things in our town."

I'm glad to report that all of us voted Lee down and let Homer have his say. I'm glad not just because the school did need a new roof, but because it doesn't do to let intolerance and prejudice creep into a community.

ELECTRICITY IS DOWN!

Electricity is about the only item in the household budget at which one can smile these days. Amid skyrocketing costs on every hand, this essential service has remained at low pre-war prices — prices about 50% lower than in 1933. There has been plenty too—for the home, farm, store and office as well as the war plant. Use electricity as needed—but don't waste it simply because it's cheap.

Senate Expected To Vote In Favor Of Truman's New Aides

WASHINGTON, May 31—President Truman's purge of the hold-over Roosevelt cabinet will proceed rapidly today with expected senate developments on three nominees.

Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwel-lenbach of Washington state will take office July 1, succeeding Frances Perkins of New York.

The senate judiciary committee, has scheduled a hearing on the nomination of Assistant Attorney General Tom C. Clark of Texas to succeed Attorney General Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania. There is no evident opposition to Clark. He will also take office July 1.

The senate agriculture committee has invited Rep. Clinton Anderson, D., N. M., and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard of Indiana to appear before it today. Anderson has been named to succeed Wickard. The latter has been nominated to be rural electrification administrator.

Sen. Henrik Shipstead, R., Minn., will lead a futile fight to prevent Wickard's confirmation. The Wickard-Anderson nominations are to be effective immediately upon confirmation.

The labor and agriculture nominations are considered particularly significant. Both point toward governmental reform which may save a little money and which almost inevitably will provide better administration of important subjects.

When Anderson takes over the agriculture department he will become head of the War Food Administration as well. Judge Marvin Jones of Texas has resigned that job to return to the court of claims.

There have been many demands from congress that responsibility for directing the agriculture department and the War Food Administration be placed in one individual. Mr. Truman evidently agrees that the late President Roosevelt made a mistake in permitting dual control of the nation's food supply.

The biggest change is expected in the labor department. Miss Perkins was the first woman member of a U. S. cabinet. Her administration began March 4, 1933.

During the following 12 years the labor department steadily diminished in importance until it almost ceased to exist as a factor in government. This remarkable shrinkage took place at a time when the nation's policies, thinking and laws concerning labor were undergoing great changes.

But as new agencies to deal with labor were established and great labor disputes snarled the nation's economy, congress and the President were in consistent agreement that responsibility for administrative action generally should be diverted from Miss Perkins.

It is believed that Schwel-lenbach would not have consented to leave his lifetime place on the bench to take over a department with so little significance. Therefore it is assumed Mr. Truman will undertake to consolidate some of the various labor agencies in the labor department.

As secretary of labor, Miss Perkins presides over her own aides and these relatively unimportant bureaus: wage and hour division, bureau of labor statistics, division of labor standards, children's and women's bureaus and the U. S. conciliation service.

Established by congress far beyond Miss Perkins' area of authority are such important agencies as the war manpower commission, war labor board, national labor relations board and fair employment practices committee. There are labor bureaus within some other government departments and agencies.

Mr. Truman has asked congress for unlimited authority to reorganize the executive branch of government. He scarcely will get as much authority as he wants.

But he probably will get more than enough to do something about the numerous federal agencies which deal with labor. That department under Schwel-lenbach will come out of the shadows.

ASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Martin, Ernest Jr., Mrs. Jean Sheldon and children, Billy and Sandra, and Mrs. Martha Newman were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brame at Springfield.

Harry M. Stultz of the Central Hospital Service is sponsoring a drive for additional members of the Blue Cross Hospital plan in this community.

S/Sgt. Boyd Teegardin, who is stationed in the Netherlands East Indies, wrote on May 20 that he has had enough of jungle life. Sgt. Teegardin has been overseas for 31 months and all but nine months have been in New Guinea and the East Indies. Following nine months in Australia, S/Sgt. Teegardin was sent to New Guinea on Dec. 28, 1942. During this long stay abroad only one person has been met who was an acquaintance on this side of the world, John O'Hare who had received training at Patterson Field early in 1942.

The Ashville Community Club met in the school auditorium Monday evening with the local P.-T. A. furnishing the banquet. Ashville teachers were guests at the banquet, and plans for the July Fourth celebration were discussed. Glen West of the State Department of Education pleased those in attendance with his witty and instructive talk in which he paid tribute to teachers who have remained in service rather than turning to more lucrative work in private industry. The next meeting of the club will be held in the club room Monday, June 25, 1945.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY
By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, May 31—It has been said of some comedians that they parrot their betters. Lenny Gale is taking no chances—he carries his own parrot.

Right now the 24-year-old comic and his parrot, a Mexican fowl named Red, are doing some very light housekeeping (coffee and crackers from the downstairs delicatessen) in a dressing room at the Strand motion picture theater, where Lenny entertains the customers from the stage and the bird entertains backstage visitors.

The bird talks a streak, sings and whistles, but it clammed up like a secret agent when Patsy Flick entered the room. It seems that Lenny made the mistake of telling Red that Patsy is a professional gag and script writer and the parrot couldn't be convinced that Patsy wouldn't lift some of its material.

Actually Flick was there to deliver material to Gale. This is the comic's first appearance in New York and in the first days of an engagement there is always the problem of shaking down a routine into its most effective form. So for his first few shows Gale was trying out different stuff that Flick contributed. Material that does all right elsewhere doesn't always go in the big town. As Flick put it:

"In Philadelphia they're laughing as they go down to their seats. They even start laughing when they buy the tickets. But in New York they sit there and dare you to be funny."

Flick was mulling over a Mayor La Guardia sequence at the time. Something along the lines of the mayor reconsidering his decision not to run for re-election when he discovered how hard it would be to find an apartment once he moved out of the mayoral mansion. What he needed for it was a yankeroo or belly-laugh finish.

Gale looks like a coming comic. He's a Buffalo lad who left home to follow a circus, where his job was following the elephants. He wasn't satisfied with this, or the prospect of being just another saxophone player in an orchestra so he tried his wings as a baritone and comedian in a lot of small-time night clubs and theaters.

This varied career brought no money but a lot of experience that money can't buy. Eventually he was working and eating regularly on the West Coast and Middle West and became a favorite in Chicago and Detroit. New York was the big step and the 76-year-old Louis Gale was down from Buffalo to see his son's debut here.

There is already in prospect a big summer radio show for Lenny in which he will put on a program imitating some of the big air comics—Benny, Hope, Bergen, etc.—acting out all roles himself.

Imitations are his forte and he can and does do everything from that extraordinarily high tenor of the Inkspots quartet to gravel-voiced Andy Devine. In appearance he is something like a combination of Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross. He could get by as a singer if he wanted to confine himself to that.

Flick, who seemed to get ideas just from looking at the parrot, suggested it would be a wonderful routine for Lenny to do a Bergen-McCarthy act, using the bird as a dummy that actually did its own talking. There was only one thing that bothered him about this. How could you fit a monacle into a parrot's eye?

"Confidentially, it's just an old canvas I use to clean my brushes on!"

DIET AND HEALTH
Looks and Taste of Medicine No Way to Judge the Value

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
MANY persons have peculiar ideas about medicines and what they may be expected to do. Certain individuals have very definite ideas as to what medicines should look like and taste like. Many think watery looking or tasteless mixtures may not be considered of much value. But looks and taste are by no means the way to judge.

Unfortunately, too, if a patient who is ill is not given some medicine, he may believe that he is not getting any treatment that is worth mentioning.

Variety of Purposes
Of course, drugs and medicines are given for a variety of purposes. It is true that in some cases a medicine may be given just because the patient expects that something should be prescribed for his illness. In most instances, however, each medicine given has some specific purpose. Certain drugs, of course, are useful in relieving pain. Others may be employed to overcome restlessness, and nervousness, and help produce sleep.

The more modern drugs, such as the sulfonamides and penicillin are given to attack infections directly, and they are called specific drugs. Certain preparations have value in relieving cough, and others in the form of drops, may be put into the nose to shrink the lining membrane, so as to open up the air passages and relieve the symptoms of a cold.

Unpleasant Reactions
There is a possibility that unpleasant reactions may occur after taking drugs in certain cases. Whenever this possibility exists, it is always well for the patient to realize it so he may be on the look-out for reactions and can inform the doctor when they occur. If a person knows he is oversensitive to some drug, he should always inform the doctor about it so that the drug will not be prescribed.

I suppose the time will come when medicines will be less and less often prescribed. But there are many drugs which are useful, not only in directly attacking infections, but also in relieving discomfort of those who are sick. Patients must learn to have complete faith in their doctors. When the doctor thinks a drug is necessary, he will prescribe it. When he believes drugs will be of no help, the patient should not expect them to be used.

For Thursday, May 31
AN interesting and eventful day is read from the lunar and mutual transits of conspicuous planets. These combine to assist in high places and enduring values, if sound plans and objectives are built upon solid foundations of industry, perseverance, and worthy aspirations of tried and tested merit. Shrewd and clever details and techniques are likely to attract recognition and substantial support from influential personages or from established organizations. While change may be suggested, embrace such with prudence, discretion, responsibility and with an eye to future solidarity and enduring fortunes. Plan ahead for sure reward.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may look for an active, telling and gratifying year in which the best efforts and worthwhile objectives may be placed on a basis of lasting benefits and enduring rewards. Clever attention to small matters, ways and means in studiously worked-out plans or tactics, built on a firm foundation of responsibility, industry, application, should win approbation and solid support from influential sources or old institutions. Some changes of plans and objectives or environs may be recommended, but consider such with an idea to the future and its definite security. It is a time for

Prince of the Pampas
by LOIS EBY AND JOHN C. FLEMING

SYNOPSIS
TERRY ARNOLD, a young Vermont newspaperwoman, has written a fairly successful novel. To gather material for a second book she has gone to the Argentine, her subject matter to be the wealthy playboy set of that Latin-American country.
CHAPTER FOUR
IT WAS past 10 when Terry woke the next morning. Bright sunshine was pouring in through the open windows and spilling down on the heavy gray carpet. She lay gazing at the canopy over her bed, at the enormous, frilled dressing table. It hadn't been a dream then. She was still in Buenos Aires, living in one of those big, old-fashioned houses, the kind of place that she had seen in the movies. She stretched and lay quietly, her eyes half open listening to the cars streaming along the boulevard, the drone of an airplane circling overhead. The faint chirp of birds came from the hotel gardens that spread below her window. I shall remember this day all my life, she promised herself. And when I lose my shirt on the race today—

That reminded her of her dinner last night with De Vera. He had been charming, poor man, though now he was more than ever sure she was Miss Ainsworth of Boston. He had looked into the history of the horse Ultimo Ventura. And it had convinced him that she had a real inside tip! The horse was young—this was its first race of importance, but it had an exceedingly good record and was from the Kimberly estancia, one of the largest and best run in Argentina. Furthermore, he had discovered the Kimberlys and their close circle of friends were laying quiet, but enormous, bets on the horse.

He had pointed out Brooks Kimberly when he came into the dining room with his fiancée, Corinne Artiga, and his friend, Raff Cordoba. Handsome young aristocrats they were—the flesh and blood people Terry had been unable to create in the pages of her book. It was then she knew she would bet on Ultimo Ventura—win, lose or draw.

Terry rose after a while, showered and dressed. She chose her best sports suit, the color of the sea in the early morning light. She brushed her hair high on her head and crowned it with a white garland. Deftly putting on a last touch of lipstick, she gathered up her white handbag and departed.

In the garden restaurant were white, wrought iron tables with glass tops that sparkled in the sunlight. Terry chose a table close to a marble fountain and ate her breakfast slowly, enjoying every mouthful. Delicious melon balls, iced cold, a lamb chop grilled to a deep amber, French rolls, hot from the oven, and a silver pot of coffee.

The taxi spun along the wide boulevard, past tall houses set deeply in velvet lawns. Neatly clipped hedges, and myriads of flowers nodded in the sun. The cars were pouring toward Palermo Park in an unbroken line. Terry felt a warm glow of satisfaction. Just to be a part of this gay scene seemed to be enough. All Argentina loved race day, and this was the greatest day of all. Most of the shops along Avenida de Mayo would be closing their doors. Soon newsboys carrying loads bigger than themselves of La Prensa, El Mundo and La Nacion would be invading the streets with the latest news of the race.

"Your change, Senorita," he called after her.
"Bet it on the race!" Terry fung back over her shoulder.
It was a happy, laughing crowd that Terry shouldered her way through. Finally she was facing the man behind the grill work. She shoved a roll of bills at him and heard her own unreal sounding voice say, "Put it on Ultimo Ventura to win!"

A small boy dressed in the gay costume of the gaucho took her ticket stub as she approached the grandstand. He led her through the crowd, up a flight of steps, and finally to a box well out in front. He pointed to one of the four chairs. "That is your seat."
Terry's excitement rose as she saw the long sweep of track and the impatient horses, with their jockeys walking them up and down a paddock inside the track. People were flowing in now in a colorful stream, rapidly filling the grandstand. An elderly couple and their young daughter moved in Terry's box.

More horses were led from the whitewashed stables. She saw a jockey in a pale blue blouse with No. 7 on his back. That must be Ultimo Ventura he was leading! A beautiful horse with a coat the color of fresh cut cherry wood glistening in the sunlight. Well, you're handsome, anyway, Terry muttered silently, clenching her fists. Remember, Beautiful, I'm betting on you—and I mean betting!

President Knows Trick Of Walking on Eggs

His Handling of Yalta Is Called Sheer Genius

● WASHINGTON—The skill with which President Truman is walking on eggs, international and domestic eggs, is astounding the well—it's astounding the world.

"By George, that man hasn't made a mistake yet," a Democratic leader was telling me. "I knew Harry was a completely honest, straightforward man. But I swear I didn't think he was as able and clever as he is."

"He's made it clear at every turn that he had no strings tied to him. He owed no pay-off to anybody. The nearest touch of all, sheer genius I call it, is the way he is making it clear that he has had nothing whatever to do with Yalta conference and the commitments made there."

"That business of calling in Mrs. Boettiger and Elliott Roosevelt to find out what Mr. Roosevelt had said to them about Yalta is so brilliant it knocks me speechless. By doing this President Truman proves to the universe that he is untouched by any of the recent mistakes of Mr. Roosevelt. He, Mr. Truman, is trying to do the best he can in a mighty ticklish situation. You can't blame him for any of the Yalta mistakes. Not if he doesn't know what Yalta was about. I tell you, being free of Yalta is something to thank his lucky stars for."

EAST AND WEST

NOW the Middle East seems to be boiling up, with the Arab states feeling their oats—or their dates—and the United Nations rushing in to calm the troubled deserts. That headache, too, goes to the doctors at San Francisco for conference, and the indications suggest a prolonged argument. When men argue in Arabic, they argue! There is no more fluent tongue in the world.

The Pan-Arab group is urged to adopt something like the Pan-American system, whereby efforts are made to accomplish peaceful settlement of local disputes and thus avoid the spread of national grievances. There is serious trouble in the Levant, which the Syrian and Lebanese delegations at San Francisco are trying to smooth down.

But all this, obviously, is nothing for simple-minded Americans to meddle with unduly. We Yanks are smart, in our own fashion, but usually not very well informed about problems and people on the other side of the world. Our procedure is usually too direct to accomplish much there. Now, and for some time to come, our Jap problem may be enough for us.

PAPER SHORTAGE

MANY shortages are familiar, but few except the insiders know the meaning of the paper shortage.

A New York publisher has been issuing no new books whatever for more than two months, because his firm must use every possible scrap of paper to keep in stock its popular books already published. Almost every other publisher has let one or more books which were still selling well drop out of print because of this same shortage of paper.

Newspapers have been especially crippled. If your favorite paper has fewer pages than formerly or has given up some feature you liked, the paper shortage is responsible.

JAP TRANSPORT

IT is pleasant to report that the Japs are having transportation trouble. So is Uncle Sam, for that matter; but we are used to such difficulties and better able to handle them.

The Japs seem rather naive about it. A new board which they have just organized announces that it will "devote its entire attention to the accomplishment of transportation efficiency, which greatly influences the war."

The air and sea blockade and the continually rising pressure of our offense is getting the supermen down. But this may not mean anything like surrender or an early end of the war. The Japs, disillusioned in the failure of their great adventure, are going to be fighting for their lives from now on, and they know it.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, May 31—It has been said of some comedians that they parrot their betters. Lenny Gale is taking no chances—he carries his own parrot.

Right now the 24-year-old comic and his parrot, a Mexican fowl named Red, are doing some very light housekeeping (coffee and crackers from the downstairs delicatessen) in a dressing room at the Strand motion picture theater, where Lenny entertains the customers from the stage and the bird entertains backstage visitors.

The bird talks a streak, sings and whistles, but it clammed up like a secret agent when Patsy Flick entered the room. It seems that Lenny made the mistake of telling Red that Patsy is a professional gag and script writer and the parrot couldn't be convinced that Patsy wouldn't lift some of its material.

Actually Flick was there to deliver material to Gale. This is the comic's first appearance in New York and in the first days of an engagement there is always the problem of shaking down a routine into its most effective form. So for his first few shows Gale was trying out different stuff that Flick contributed. Material that does all right elsewhere doesn't always go in the big town. As Flick put it:

"In Philadelphia they're laughing as they go down to their seats. They even start laughing when they buy the tickets. But in New York they sit there and dare you to be funny."

Flick was mulling over a Mayor La Guardia sequence at the time. Something along the lines of the mayor reconsidering his decision not to run for re-election when he discovered how hard it would be to find an apartment once he moved out of the mayoral mansion. What he needed for it was a yankeroo or belly-laugh finish.

Gale looks like a coming comic. He's a Buffalo lad who left home to follow a circus, where his job was following the elephants. He wasn't satisfied with this, or the prospect of being just another saxophone player in an orchestra so he tried his wings as a baritone and comedian in a lot of small-time night clubs and theaters.

This varied career brought no money but a lot of experience that money can't buy. Eventually he was working and eating regularly on the West Coast and Middle West and became a favorite in Chicago and Detroit. New York was the big step and the 76-year-old Louis Gale was down from Buffalo to see his son's debut here.

There is already in prospect a big summer radio show for Lenny in which he will put on a program imitating some of the big air comics—Benny, Hope, Bergen, etc.—acting out all roles himself.

Imitations are his forte and he can and does do everything from that extraordinarily high tenor of the Inkspots quartet to gravel-voiced Andy Devine. In appearance he is something like a combination of Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross. He could get by as a singer if he wanted to confine himself to that.

Flick, who seemed to get ideas just from looking at the parrot, suggested it would be a wonderful routine for Lenny to do a Bergen-McCarthy act, using the bird as a dummy that actually did its own talking. There was only one thing that bothered him about this. How could you fit a monacle into a parrot's eye?

Looks and Taste of Medicine No Way to Judge the Value

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY persons have peculiar ideas about medicines and what they may be expected to do. Certain individuals have very definite ideas as to what medicines should look like and taste like. Many think watery looking or tasteless mixtures may not be considered of much value. But looks and taste are by no means the way to judge.

Unfortunately, too, if a patient who is ill is not given some medicine, he may believe that he is not getting any treatment that is worth mentioning.

Variety of Purposes

Of course, drugs and medicines are given for a variety of purposes. It is true that in some cases a medicine may be given just because the patient expects that something should be prescribed for his illness. In most instances, however, each medicine given has some specific purpose. Certain drugs, of course, are useful in relieving pain. Others may be employed to overcome restlessness, and nervousness, and help produce sleep.

The more modern drugs, such as the sulfonamides and penicillin are given to attack infections directly, and they are called specific drugs. Certain preparations have value in relieving cough, and others in the form of drops, may be put into the nose to shrink the lining membrane, so as to open up the air passages and relieve the symptoms of a cold.

Unpleasant Reactions

There is a possibility that unpleasant reactions may occur after taking drugs in certain cases. Whenever this possibility exists, it is always well for the patient to realize it so he may be on the look-out for reactions and can inform the doctor when they occur. If a person knows he is oversensitive to some drug, he should always inform the doctor about it so that the drug will not be prescribed.

I suppose the time will come when medicines will be less and less often prescribed. But there are many drugs which are useful, not only in directly attacking infections, but also in relieving discomfort of those who are sick. Patients must learn to have complete faith in their doctors. When the doctor thinks a drug is necessary, he will prescribe it. When he believes drugs will be of no help, the patient should not expect them to be used.

SYNOPSIS
TERRY ARNOLD, a young Vermont newspaperman, has written a fairly successful novel. To gather material for a second book she has gone to the Argentine, her subject matter to be the wealthy playboy set of that Latin-American country.

YESTERDAY: Finding herself involuntarily installed in Buenos Aires' most luxurious hotel because three Argentine newsmen mistake her for a Miss Ainsworth, a Boston heiress, Terry decides recklessly to wager her remaining few dollars on Ultimo Ventura, a little-known race horse.

CHAPTER FOUR

IT WAS past 10 when Terry woke the next morning. Bright sunshine was pouring in through the open windows and spilling down on the heavy gray carpet. She lay gazing at the canopy over her bed, at the enormous, frilled dressing table. It hadn't been a dream then. She was still in Buenos Aires, living for one dazzling day off her plane ticket. She stretched and lay quietly, her eyes half open listening to the cars streaming along the boulevard, the drone of an airplane circling overhead. The faint chirp of birds came from the hotel gardens that spread below her window. I shall remember this day all my life, she promised herself. And when I lose my shirt on the race today—

That reminded her of her dinner last night with De Vera. He had been charming, poor man, though now he was more than ever sure she was Miss Ainsworth of Boston. He had looked into the history of the horse Ultimo Ventura. And it had convinced him that she had a real inside tip! The horse was young—this was its first race of importance, but it had an exceedingly good record and was from the Kimberly estancia, one of the largest and best run in Argentina. Furthermore, he had discovered the Kimberly and their close circle of friends were laying quiet, but enormous, bets on the horse.

He had pointed out Brooks Kimberly when he came into the dining room with his fiancée, Corinne Artigas, and his friend, Raff Cordoba. Handsome young aristocrats they were—the flesh and blood people Terry had been unable to create in the pages of her book. It was then she knew she would bet on Ultimo Ventura—win, lose or draw.

MRS. TRUMAN HAS TROUBLES

Bottles Refuse To Break As First Lady Tries To Christen Planes

WASHINGTON, May 31—Mrs. Harry S. Truman will always remember with just a tinge of ruefulness her first public appearance as first lady—and the champagne bottle that wouldn't break.

There were two planes to be christened.

"I christen you U. S. Capitol," she said, whamming the bottle against the nose of a big new Army C-54 hospital plane.

The bottle bounced back gaily, unbroken. Mrs. Truman looked resolute and swung again.

Again the bottle held. Her face grew desperate. She gritted her teeth and hit out with all her might. No go.

She smacked the plane's round, shimmering nose again and again. Nine times. Still the bottle remained unbroken.

Up stepped a gold-braided White House military aide to the first lady's rescue. He took the bottle and gave it a lusty swing.

The stupid thing didn't seem to know what was expected of it. It remained whole. He hammered the plane with the champagne bottle three more times.

All he did was dent the nose. So the crew said it was a good luck omen and they let it go at that.

By this time everybody at the air transport command terminal—including members of the congressional club whose war bond sales paid for the planes—was laughing.

But the first lady looked pretty solemn as she and the aide walked across the platform to the second plane—a Navy hospital ship.

Profiting from the plight of the Army a Navy man picked up a hatchet. He gave his bottle a few knocks.

Mrs. Truman hesitated. She was a bit breathless and warm by now. The sun was streaming down. She surveyed the plane suspiciously and muttered:

"I christen you the Congressional."

She swung. Nothing happened. She took a long, long breath, rolled her eyes skyward and hit again.

Champagne—foaming, bubbling champagne—geysered into the air, splashing her as much as the plane. Mrs. Truman wiped it off and gave a weary, triumphant smile.

She had christened a plane.

SENATE PLANS SUMMER RECESS

Solons Abandon Prospect Of Considering Security Treaty Before Fall

WASHINGTON, May 31—The senate today abandoned any prospect of considering a world security organization treaty before next fall.

Instead congress may take a Summer recess and send a foreign relations subcommittee to Europe. Sen. Walter F. George, D. Ga., acting chairman of the foreign relations committee, said the schedule now contemplated would postpone treaty consideration until after Labor Day.

The recess and trip to Europe by part of the committee which would handle the treaty are scheduled tentatively for the first of July. The San Francisco conference drawing up security organization plans is expected to wind up June 6 or shortly thereafter.

"There isn't a chance that a treaty based on the San Francisco meeting would be ready for submission to the senate before the first of July," George said in an interview.

He expected that the proposed recess would last until Labor Day and the treaty would be at the top of the committee agenda when sessions are resumed.

The trip to Europe was agreed upon by committee members in an executive session Tuesday afternoon. It is planned for a subcommittee of seven to 12 members to visit European capitals. They would meet foreign officers of European countries and check up on our own diplomatic representation overseas.

George said he believed the trip would be helpful in giving committee members a clearer picture of European political problems. He said it also probably would improve treaty prospects in the senate.

The trip to Europe probably will be headed by committee chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., both now are serving as U. S. delegates to the San Francisco conference.

MRS. TRUMAN HAS TROUBLES

Bottles Refuse To Break As First Lady Tries To Christen Planes

WASHINGTON, May 31—Mrs. Harry S. Truman will always remember with just a tinge of ruefulness her first public appearance as first lady—and the champagne bottle that wouldn't break.

There were two planes to be christened.

"I christen you U. S. Capitol," she said, whamming the bottle against the nose of a big new Army C-54 hospital plane.

The bottle bounced back gaily, unbroken. Mrs. Truman looked resolute and swung again.

Again the bottle held. Her face grew desperate. She gritted her teeth and hit out with all her might. No go.

She smacked the plane's round, shimmering nose again and again. Nine times. Still the bottle remained unbroken.

Up stepped a gold-braided White House military aide to the first lady's rescue. He took the bottle and gave it a lusty swing.

The stupid thing didn't seem to know what was expected of it. It remained whole. He hammered the plane with the champagne bottle three more times.

All he did was dent the nose. So the crew said it was a good luck omen and they let it go at that.

By this time everybody at the air transport command terminal—including members of the congressional club whose war bond sales paid for the planes—was laughing. But the first lady looked pretty solemn as she and the aide walked across the platform to the second plane—a Navy hospital ship.

Profiting from the plight of the Army a Navy man picked up a hatchet. He gave his bottle a few knocks.

Mrs. Truman hesitated. She was a bit breathless and warm by now. The sun was streaming down. She surveyed the plane suspiciously and muttered:

"I christen you the Congressional."

She swung. Nothing happened. She took a long, long breath, rolled her eyes skyward and hit again.

Champagne—foaming, bubbling champagne—geysered into the air, splashing her as much as the plane. Mrs. Truman wiped it off and gave a weary, triumphant smile.

She had christened a plane.

The same curbstone repair service supplied to Gen. Eisenhower's forces in Germany is now being given to Gen. MacArthur's island-hopping forces in the Pacific. Liberty ships or ocean-going tugs are towing the huge floating shops from island to island, where they can be put in operation within 24 hours.

Dr. Clarence T. Simon, professor of speech re-education at Northwestern University, says that 10 per cent of the nation's school children have speech defects ranging from stuttering to inability to produce certain vowel and consonant sounds.

Six of Gen. Patton's "General Sherman" tanks, using 75-mm and 76-mm guns, knocked off every one of 12 German tanks in a pitched battle at Bastogne without suffering any losses themselves.

GETTING EMBRACED—"kissed," says the report—is the U. S. 7th Army's hard-hitting commander, Lt. Gen. William Simpson, pictured in Germany as he got thanked by Col. Gen. Dinitri Sviataiev, Russian 33rd Army commander, for a Legion of Merit medal. (International)

COLUMBUS—Col. Loren G. Windom, former assistant U. S. district attorney here and a veteran member of the Old National Guard, has been named commander of the 145th infantry regiment of the 37th division in the Philippines, it was announced today.

YOUTH DROWNS
COLUMBUS—Funeral arrangements were made today for 16-year-old Robert Henry Conley who slipped from a sand bar into Olen-tangy river while fishing yesterday and drowned while two young-

SENATE PLANS SUMMER RECESS

Solons Abandon Prospect Of Considering Security Treaty Before Fall

WASHINGTON, May 31—The senate today abandoned any prospect of considering a world security organization treaty before next fall.

Instead congress may take a Summer recess and send a foreign relations subcommittee to Europe. Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., acting chairman of the foreign relations committee, said the schedule now contemplated would postpone treaty consideration until after Labor Day.

The recess and trip to Europe by part of the committee which would handle the treaty are scheduled tentatively for the first of July. The San Francisco conference drawing up security organization plans is expected to wind up June 6 or shortly thereafter.

"There isn't a chance that a treaty based on the San Francisco meeting would be ready for submission to the senate before the first of July," George said in an interview.

He expected that the proposed recess would last until Labor Day and the treaty would be at the top of the committee agenda when sessions are resumed.

The trip to Europe was agreed upon by committee members in an executive session Tuesday afternoon. It is planned for a subcommittee of seven to 12 members to visit European capitals. They would meet foreign officers of European countries and check upon our own diplomatic representation overseas.

George said he believed the trip would be helpful in giving committee members a clearer picture of European political problems. He said it also probably would improve treaty prospects in the senate.

The trip to Europe probably will be headed by committee chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., both now are serving as U. S. delegates to the San Francisco conference.

Elmer Wolf filed suit to collect $125 plus seven percent interest on a promissory note dated July 16, 1940 given by Wilbur and Minnie Buckingham. The common pleas court suit seeks to recover a total of $151.93 plus court costs.

BREWERS KEEP AA FIRST PLACE; BIRDS IN SPLIT

By United Press
Milwaukee retained its American Association lead today despite a trimming from the second-division Kansas City Blues, who won both games of a holiday double-header, 8 to 7 and 4 to 3.

Indianapolis and Louisville, second and third-place contenders respectively, split a pair at Indianapolis. The first contest went to the Indians 4 to 3, and Louisville took the nightcap, 6 to 4.

Yesterday was visiting day in the twin cities, and Minneapolis defeated the Saints, 4 to 3, in a morning game at St. Paul. The Saints rallied in the afternoon, however, when they journeyed across the river to whip the Millers, 10 to 2. All four Minneapolis runs including a homer by outfielder Robert Dill, came in the eighth inning of the opener. Dick Lananah came out of retirement to pitch the winning game for St. Paul.

At Columbus, the Red Birds and Toledo came out even. The teams were tied until the fourth inning of the first when Columbus connected for four quick runs, winning 10 to 4. Toledo took the nightcap, 6 to 4.

Today's games: Toledo at Columbus; Louisville at Indianapolis; Milwaukee at Kansas City (2) and Minneapolis at St. Paul.

250,000 WATCH HOLIDAY GAMES

Major League Teams Split Doubleheaders; Reds Cop Twin Win

NEW YORK, May 31—America's first holiday since victory in Europe brought a quarter of a million war-weary fans to major league baseball games yesterday, but as for seeing anything definite accomplished in either pennant race, all of them might as well have stayed on their front porches.

Two pennant contenders, the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates came to the end of long winning streaks, but each atoned by salvaging one game in a double header. The same practice of splitting twin bills was in vogue almost everywhere.

Only two teams, the Washington Senators in the American and the Cincinnati Reds in the National, made clean sweeps of their twin bills and both are imbedded so deeply in the second division that they were unable to get out even with two in a row.

The largest crowd to see a baseball game since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor turned out for the Yankee-Tiger double header at Yankee stadium, with the total running to 70,906, including service men. The Yankees were unable to oblige their supporters by winning as they dropped the first game 3 to 2, as the Tigers capitalized on Frank (Stubby) Overmire's steady pitching. They won the second, 3 to 2.

Pittsburgh had no trouble in running its streak of victories to nine in the National, beating the visiting Brooklyn Dodgers 13 to 5, in the opener. Brooklyn, apparently anxious to hold its season record of 12 straight wins, took the second game 14 to 10.

The leading New York Giants won the first game against the Cubs at Chicago, 8 to 6, then dropped the second, 11 to 2, as their ace Bill Voiselle was batted out for his second straight defeat after eight straight victories. Manager Mel Ott of the Giants set a new National League record for total bases when he hit a double and single in the opener to bring his lifetime mark to 4,890, two better than the 4,888 total of Honus (Hans) Wagner, Pittsburgh Pirate immortal. Ernie Lombard's 12th homer of the season gave the Giants their opening game victory margin.

The Braves kept the defending champion Cardinals from gaining at St. Louis, winning the second game behind Jim Tobin's effective pinch-pitching, 9 to 2, after the Red Birds took the opener in 12 innings, 4 to 2.

The Reds took over sixth place in the National by beating the visiting Philadelphia Phillies at Cincinnati twice, 4 to 0 on Ed Heusser's four-hit pitching, and 9 to 8 with a three run rally in the ninth of the second game. The Reds overcame an 8 to 3 lead to win the second.

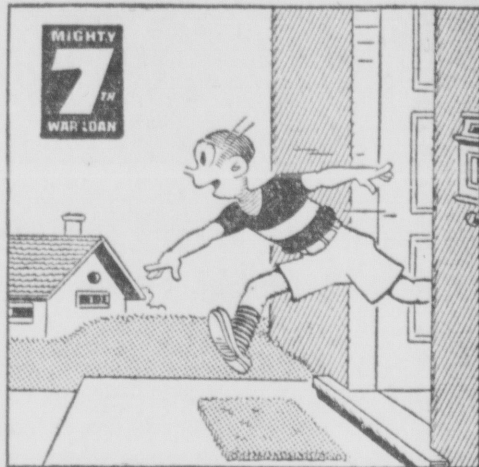

Washington added to the humiliation of the champion St. Louis Browns on their current road trip by winning a twilight-night double header, 3 to 2, in 13 innings and, 5 to 0. It was the first double victory of the season for the Senators who moved up to sixth place.

Thornton Lee of the White Sox beat the A's, 5 to 2, in the opener at Philadelphia for his sixth win, but Russ Christopher countered that by winning, 4 to 2, on a five-hit job in the afterpiece for his seventh victory.

Ben Steiner kept the Red Sox from winning the opener when he dropped an easy pop-up in the ninth to permit Cleveland to score the

TOWING SURRENDERED U-BOAT TO U. S. NAVY YARD

TWO NAVY TUGS PULL ALONGSIDE the 1,600-ton U-234, largest of the U-boats in the roundup of the German sub fleet in the North Atlantic, to tow the undersea craft to anchorage at the U. S. Navy Yard at Portsmouth, N. H. Aboard the sub were Luftwaffe Maj. Gen. Ulrich Kessler, several lesser ranking Luftwaffe members, three unidentified men in civilian clothes, eight submarine officers and 49 men. The bodies of two Japs, which were reported by the Navy aboard the sub when it radioed its surrender from a point 500 miles off Greenland, were not aboard. Another report said that a heavy baggage load indicated that the giant German submarine was originally headed for Japan with war secrets. (International Soundphoto)

City, County Observe Memorial Day Holiday With Programs, Outings

The weather cooperated to make Memorial Day programs a success.

A solemn note, even more pronounced than usual, prevailed at the morning services at Forest cemetery and other cemeteries over the county. Many were thankful their relatives and friends had returned from one war and all were hopeful that soon all other county servicemen will be back home soon.

The main memorial service was held at Forest cemetery. The occasion recalled that the first Decoration Day service was held there May 30, 1863, while the Civil War was raging.

A parade, led by the high school band, from Memorial Hall to Forest cemetery started the decoration services, which were held by the veteran's organizations and their auxiliaries.

George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, presented the Memorial Day address to a large gathering at the cemetery. Mr. McDowell said that it was altogether fitting that Memorial Day be celebrated as it was being celebrated. It is a day of recollection, he said, for many of us. Truly a memory day for the relatives and friends who have given their lives in this and other wars.

"Memorial Day is a day of resolution," Mr. McDowell said, "our observance whether in actual ceremony or in the heart will be a limited one unless it emerges in a high resolve to keep faith with those who have gone before us. Memorial Day is also a day of dedication. A specific day in which we honor our brave and fine young men and women now in military service. It is up to the living, to dedicate our lives to the furtherance of the ideals of those who now rest in soldiers' graves."

Memorial Day celebrations in the afternoon and evening in Circleville fulfilled the traditions of an American holiday. There were picnics and outings held in private yards and in the park.

Ted Lewis Park was filled to overflowing throughout most of the afternoon and evening. Baseball games featured the planned program. Games for children were also held in the afternoon. Playground equipment was busy until late. About 2,000 people attended the main games, played under the new floodlights, in the evening. Four policemen were detailed to take care of the huge flow of motor and pedestrian traffic at the park entrances and exits.

Downtown Circleville showed the effects of the community celebration at the park. There was little traffic on the streets and sidewalks most of the day. All stores were closed at least part of the day.

In Yankee Maine are communities named China, Mexico, Norway, Denmark, Poland, Sweden, New Canada—and Eden.

City, County Observe Memorial Day Holiday With Programs, Outings

The weather cooperated to make Memorial Day programs a success.

A solemn note, even more pronounced than usual, prevailed at the morning services at Forest cemetery and other cemeteries over the county. Many were thankful their relatives and friends had returned from one war and all were hopeful that soon all other country servicemen will be back home soon.

The main memorial service was held at Forest cemetery. The occasion recalled that the first Decoration Day service was held there May 30, 1863, while the Civil War was raging.

A parade, led by the high school band, from Memorial Hall to Forest cemetery started the decoration services, which were held by the veteran's organizations and their auxiliaries.

George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, presented the Memorial Day address to a large gathering at the cemetery. Mr. McDowell said that it was altogether fitting that Memorial Day be celebrated as it was being celebrated. It is a day of recollection, he said, for many of us. Truly a memory day for the relatives and friends who have given their lives in this and other wars.

"Memorial Day is a day of resolution," Mr. McDowell said, "our observance whether in actual ceremony or in the heart will be a limited one unless it emerges in a high resolve to keep faith with those who have gone before us. Memorial Day is also a day of dedication. A specific day in which we honor our brave and fine young men and women now in military service. It is up to the living, to dedicate our lives to the furtherance of the ideals of those who now rest in soldiers' graves."

Memorial Day celebrations in the afternoon and evening in Circleville fulfilled the traditions of an American holiday. There were picnics and outings held in private yards and in the park.

Ted Lewis Park was filled to overflowing throughout most of the afternoon and evening. Baseball games featured the planned program. Games for children were also held in the afternoon. Playground equipment was busy until late. About 2,000 people attended the main games, played under the new floodlights, in the evening. Four policemen were detailed to take care of the huge flow of motor and pedestrian traffic at the park entrances and exits.

Downtown Circleville showed the effects of the community celebration at the park. There was little traffic on the streets and sidewalks most of the day. All stores were closed at least part of the day.

In Yankee Maine are communities named China, Mexico, Norway, Denmark, Poland, Sweden, New Canada—and Eden.

65 Circleville High School Seniors Receive Diplomas

CAPT. KIRWIN IS SPEAKER AT COMMENCEMENT

Former Graduate Stresses Opportunities At 87th Annual Program

Sixty-five Circleville high school seniors were presented diplomas at the eighty-seventh annual commencement exercises in the high school auditorium Thursday evening.

The seniors in blue caps and gowns were sitting on the auditorium stage in a semi-circle facing the audience. White and red pennants were arranged as a border for the stage.

The exercises were started with the seniors and audience singing the National Anthem accompanied by the high school orchestra under the direction of Charles F. Zaenglein, school music instructor.

Captain Pat Kirwin, U. S. Army Air Forces, delivered the main address. Capt. Kirwin was a member of the Circleville high school class of 1932. He told the seniors that it was a little of a surprise to him that he was there Thursday evening as it was only thirteen years ago that he had been graduated and they, the present graduates, had just been on the verge of entering the first year of grammar school.

America, said Capt. Kirwin, is the only nation in the world today in which they, for the most part, could march up and receive their diplomas. Other nations had been concerned with different kinds of marches. He told the seniors that the Americans were the most envied nation in the world because our freedom is known throughout the world. Everyone is aware that Americans are free regardless of race, creed or color.

The destinies of all men are bound up together. Part of the world may not be bound in shackles and dying from want and the other half expect that it will not direct some influence upon them. If we wish peace here in Circleville we must strive for it all over the face of the earth, he said.

The sermon on the mount, the Airforce captain told the seniors, accentuates the finest peace proposal the world has ever heard. Let us not forget to respect the rights of others. The golden rule was not intended to be a medium with which students practice penmanship. Tolerance must be the guiding light for each of us, were a few of the axioms the captain used in his address.

"History," the captain said in closing, "does not permit men the luxury of escaping their inheritance."

Carrie Z. Arledge presented the salutatory. The theme was based on "America, The Beautiful." Miriam C. Turner delivered the valedictory.

The Rev. Carl L. Kennedy, pastor of the Presbyterian church, presented the invocation and the benediction. Frank Fischer, Circleville school superintendent, introduced the speaker.

J. Wray Henry, high school principal, presented the class and the awards to the class. The fifteenth annual Kiwanis achievement awards were presented to Robert M. Sprouse and Miriam C. Turner. The awards are presented to two graduates each year for their work scholastically and their interest and success in extra-curricular activities.

Miriam C. Turner, Carrie Z. Arledge, Harry E. Briner and Jo Olive Doolittle were graduated with an average of 3.5 or better for their four years of high school. Seventeen percent of the graduating class received certificates of merit from the state department of education for excellence in the state examinations for high school seniors recently.

Clarence R. Barnhart, president of the Circleville board of education, presented a brief talk to the seniors before he awarded the diplomas. Mr. Barnhart told them of the difficulties the school board suffered in providing them with teachers and school supplies because of the war.

The commencement exercises were closed by the audience and

WLB REVISES WAGE CEILINGS FOR SOME JOBS

CLEVELAND, June 1—The regional WLB today announced new "sound and tested going rates" for office and factory clerical workers, covering approximately 60 different job types, in seven Ohio cities.

The rates affect Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Youngstown and Canton labor areas. The revisions, first since 1943, raise the ceiling for a majority of the jobs, although lower maximums are set for a few.

Changes in ceilings do not give employers automatic permission to make changes in wages, F. H. Bullen, regional chairman, said. The new rates will be used as a guide in considering applications for wage increases.

ducing pigs and this cut hog production 30 percent this year below last year.

They urged poultry producers to sell chickens and many hatcheries closed. The January chicks, which would be about ready for fryers now, simply were not produced. Consequently, there cannot be any increase in egg production before late October and eggs will grow increasingly scarce during the summer.

I do not fully understand the phenomenon of the complaint that OPA prices are insufficient to promote food production, while at the same time fantastic prices are being charged in the stores—for instance $4 apiece for ducks, and 37 cents apiece for soft shell crabs.

The experts say that higher prices are due to shortages and the shortages were created by low prospects, both of which seem to be true but a little complicated. In any event you are not going to get any relief in meats, poultry or fish (I understand the fantastic fish prices are due to the government restrictions on equipment, nets, gills and so forth, coupled with the labor shortage and the drafting policy.) What you will get in the way of vegetables will depend on the weather during the next 30 days.

Congress is outraged and is preparing to take its wrath out on OPA. Many want that agency abolished, although I do not see how you can eliminate government price management as long as shortages exist. What we need is good management.

However, it now seems likely

OPA will be extended by congress only for 90 days beyond July 1 and congress will enact many restrictions on its activity, none of which will solve any food situation for the next nine months.

In any event you are not going to get any relief in meats, poultry or fish (I understand the fantastic fish prices are due to the government restrictions on equipment, nets, gills and so forth, coupled with the labor shortage and the drafting policy.) What you will get in the way of vegetables will depend on the weather during the next 30 days.

Congress is outraged and is preparing to take its wrath out on OPA. Many want that agency abolished, although I do not see how you can eliminate government price management as long as shortages exist. What we need is good management.

However, it now seems likely

OPA will be extended by congress only for 90 days beyond July 1 and congress will enact many restrictions on its activity, none of which will solve any food situation for the next nine months.

CHARLES SEALL RECOVERING IN ARMY HOSPITAL

S/Sgt. Charles M. Seall, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Seall, 309 Watt street, is recovering from malnutrition in an Army general hospital in England. He had been a German war prisoner for over a year.

Captain Charles W. Beaven, his ward surgeon, reported that he is improving rapidly and recovering some of the weight he lost while in the hands of the Germans.

Sgt. Seall was an aerial photographer. He was forced to parachute to safety when the bomber in which he was flying was shot down by flak over Austria.

Before entering the Army in March 1942 Sgt. Seall was employed by the Buckeye Steel Casting company.
